Cosmetic Injections

Botox, Xeomin & Dysport

Both Botox and Xeomin belong to a class of medications called neuromodulators used to treat facial wrinkles, excessive sweating, and even migraines. They work by blocking the signals to the muscles which causes contraction, helping to reduce lines and wrinkles.

These products can also be injected in areas which may produce excessive sweat and can be used to treat a condition, known as hyperhidrosis.

The injections feel like a pinch. It takes about 10 mins. You begin to see results in 48-72 hours, with full effect achieved within 1-2 weeks. Results last 3-4 months, and with regular treatment can last up to 6 months.

Different areas of the face may require different amounts of product, sold by the unit. We can discuss what is the right amount for you!

Hyaluronic Acid Filler

We carry several different cosmetic filler composed of Hyaluronic Acid (HA), including Versa, Belotero, and all the Restylane products (Lyft, Contour, Refyne, Defyne, etc). Hyaluronic acid is a polysaccharide found naturally in all living organisms. In human skin, hyaluronic acid binds water to add volume and pliability. As we age, our skin loses its ability to produce Hyaluronic acid. HA is injected into the skin to create volume, thereby smoothing wrinkles and providing a fuller shape.

HA products are packaged and sold as pre filled, sterile syringes. Each syringe is intended for a single patient use. Carrying such a wide range of options allows us to pick the filler specific to your concern.

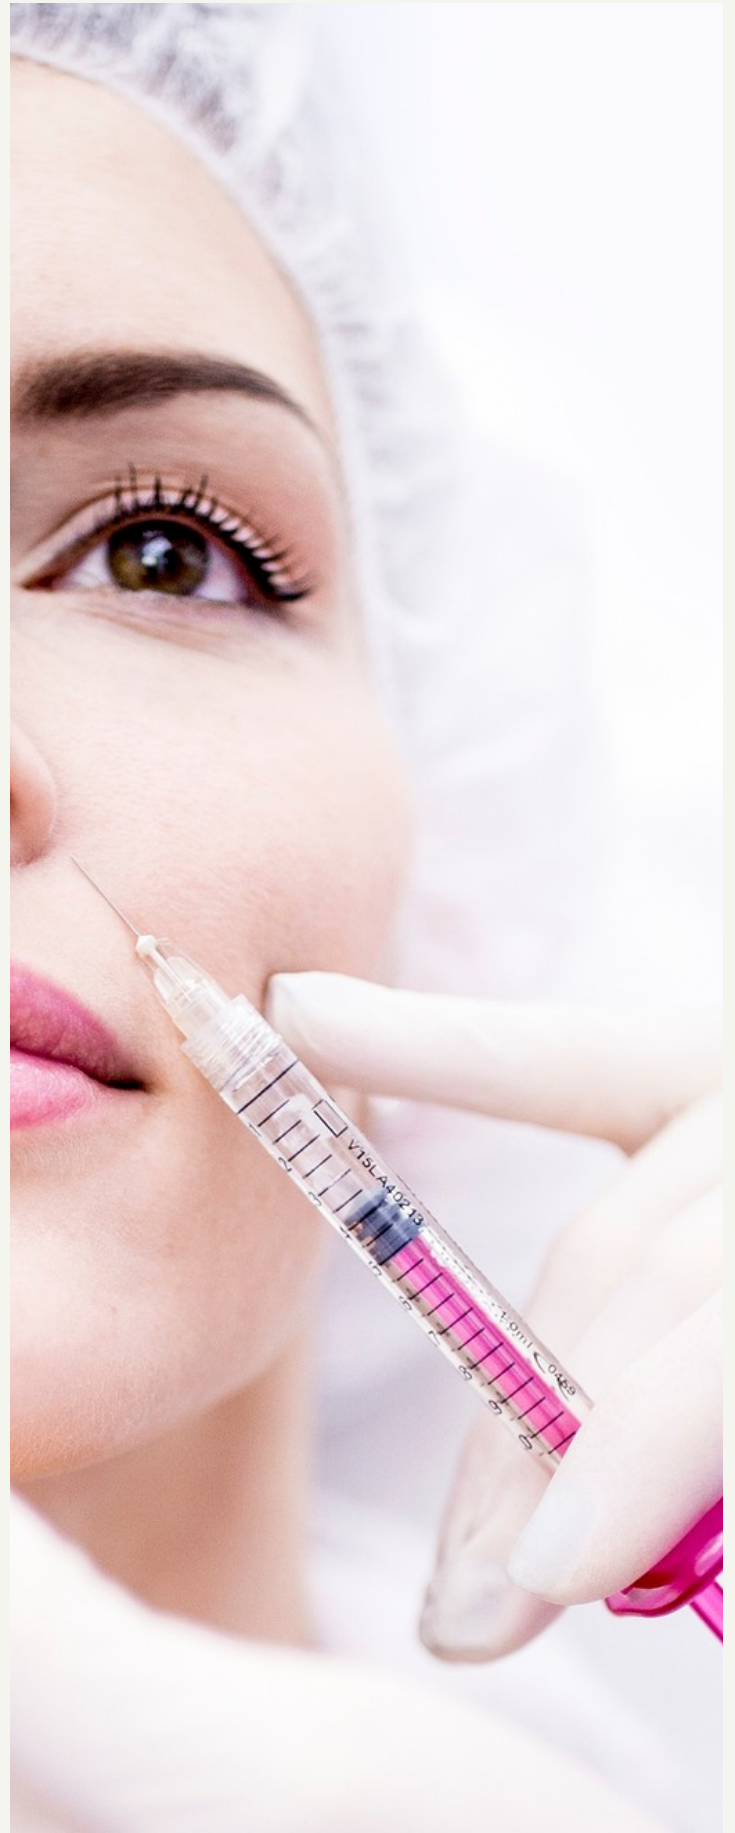

Filler injections are immediately noticeable, but may be initially exaggerated due to swelling. Some bruising may occur and last a few days

The effects of HA fillers are temporary, meaning the injection will have to be repeated on a regular basis to maintain the effects. Results typically last 6 months to one year following the injection.

Radiesse

Calcium Hydroxylapatite (CaHA), Radiesse, is an injectable implant composed of smooth calcium hydroxylapatite (CaHA) microspheres suspended in a sodium carboxymethylcellulose gel carrier. It is injected under the skin to provide an immediate and visible correction to structural volume loss, deep folds and wrinkles. Over time, the gel is absorbed, and replaced with fibroblasts, which stimulate the gradual production of your own collagen. This filler builds structural scaffolding which stimulates and supports your body's own collagen, producing results which can last for 1 year or longer from only 1 injection. Both HA and CaHA products are packaged and sold as pre-filled, sterile syringes. Each syringe is intended for a single patient use. Effects are immediately noticeable, but may be initially exaggerated due to swelling. Some bruising may occur and last a few days.

Chemical Peels

A Chemical Peel is a medium depth peeling treatment used to rapidly exfoliate the skin. This active solution assists in drying acne lesions, reducing acne scarring, clearing the skin of blackheads, smooths superficial lines and wrinkles, and lightens pigmented skin disorders.

The skin is thoroughly cleansed and a pre-treatment is used to remove dead skin cells and oil, ensuring an even penetration of the Chemical Peel Solution. The Chemical Peeling Solution is then applied with cotton swabs or pads in one even coat and is left on the skin to penetrate.

The depth of the peel determines its intensity and degree of exfoliation. This process can be fairly irritating to most skin types and cause temporary redness, tightness and itching. This will be followed by a period of visible peeling and flaking, eventually revealing the desired new, fresh layer of tissue.

Peel application takes around 20 minutes, A follow up kit and instructions are provided to maximize results. Client preparation and adherence to follow up care are essential to maximize results and minimize unwanted side effects.

Noticeable results can be seen after only 1 treatment, however best results are seen after a series of 3-6 peels.

Hydration & Nutrition

Intravenous Therapies

Intravenous fluids, electrolytes, vitamins and minerals is a service we offer to help you feel your most energetic and beautiful self! We offer a variety of blends to meet many different needs. We don't skimp on the hydration either, 1L of IV fluids is included with each of our formulations! This ensures that you are not only receiving the benefits of the various available vitamins, minerals and antioxidants, but also maximum hydration at the cellular level.

We will review your health history, medication list, and perform a quick physical exam to make sure that IV hydration is right for you. A small needle is then inserted into your arm through which the selected infusion will be delivered. This takes about 1 hour.

If you are interested in regular infusions as an adjuvant therapy for a chronic medical condition we are able to collaboratively join your treatment team. We will partner with you to thoroughly review your health status and history. In these cases we do require a written release from your primary treating physician.

B12 Injection

We offer quick B12 injections. These can support healthy metabolic function, increase mental clarity and boost energy.
